Alpaca Yoga!

Sat., June 3, 2017 • 10:30–11:30 a.m.

Expect this view from your yoga mat!

We have a unique experience for you. Come participate in Alpaca Yoga! Yoga teacher, Sheila Watson, from Bee Free Yoga will lead a freestyle yoga class out in the pasture amongst our grazing alpacas. Interacting with animals has been shown to have therapeutic advantages. Combine yoga with alpacas, and what could be a better way to start your day!

Freestyle yoga is a fun and challenging technique for the beginner to the expert. It is a sequence featuring a smooth continuous flow of movement which includes warming up, stretching, cardio, cooling down and final relaxation. After the class, you will be free to feed and mingle with the alpacas.

The class is limited to 25 attendees. Bring your own mats. A refreshing beverage will be offered after class. Open to ages 12 to adult.

The first 10 prepaid reservations will be guaranteed a spot rain or shine. If there is rainy weather the 10 capacity class will move into the barn. Don't worry, we will cover the barn floor. You can find registration information on our Facebook page.

Class Offerings

Are you looking for something new and creative to do, something other than painting on a canvas? Sunny Meade Alpacas has a farm fiber studio, and continues to plan a number of fun classes to explore the many creative uses of our Lexi FeltLOOM.

Needle felting is the process of using a barbed needle to repeatedly jab alpaca/wool fibers causing them to grab each other and tangle, becoming compact into flat pieces. Our FeltLOOM greatly increases the number of needles used in traditional needle felting, from just a few needles to 3 rows of 100 needles.

No experience is required for our unique classes, you will be instructed on techniques. A bonus is that our studio has a picture window where you can see the alpacas in the barn. You are also welcome to take a break during the class to interact with the alpacas if you like. Due to the studio size the class sizes are limited, so register early. Here are descriptions of our future class offerings.
